DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is responsive to the Remarks filed on February 28, 2008. The remarks have overcome the 112, 2nd Rejection. However, a new rejection is presented for the following reasons of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kageyama et al., U.S. Pat. 5,658,683.

Rejection of claims 1-4 drawn to an energy device.

Kageyama et al., teach an energy device comprising a winding body in which a band-shaped laminate (abstract) having a flexible elongated substrate, a negative collector, a solid electrolyte, a positive active material, and a positive collector in this order (col. 5, lines 54-67) is wound in a plate shape with the flexible elongated substrate placed inside, wherein a cross-sectional shape of the winding body perpendicular to a winding axis includes portions at opposing ends of the cross-sectional shape with small radiuses of curvature and portions between the opposing ends of the cross-sectional shape with large radiuses of curvature (Fig. 1A, 2). The energy device according to claim 1, wherein the flexible elongated substrate is made of an insulating material (col. 4, lines 38-43). The energy device according to claim 1, further comprising a negative active material between the negative collector and the solid electrolyte (Fig. 7, 8). The energy device according to claim 3, wherein a thickness of the negative active material is smaller than that of the positive active material (col. 6, lines 56-67 and col. 7, lines 1-19).

Thus, the claims are anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 5 and 30 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kageyama et al., U.S. Pat. 5,658,683.

Kageyama et al., teach an energy device as described above.

Kageyama et al., do not teach energy device according to claim 1, wherein a minimum radius of an outer surface of the flexible elongated substrate is in a range of 5 times to 100 times a thickness of the band-shaped laminate excluding the flexible elongated substrate. It does not teach the ratio of the size in a horizontal direction to the size in a vertical direction for the plate shape is at least 5.

However, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made because although the prior art of record does not teach the recited ranges and ratios, "mere scaling up of a prior art process capable of being scaled up, if such were the case, would not establish patentability in a claim to an old process so scaled, In re Rinehart, 531 F.2d 1048, 189 USPQ 143 (CCPA 1976)." 531 F.2d at 1053, 189 USPQ at 148.). In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5, 30 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
